Local Brevities.

Joe Bagdonovich, a native of Austria, yesterday declared his intention of becoming a citizen of the United States.

The county court met yesterday afternoon in regular session, but did no other business than the auditing of claims. The session will be resumed this morning.

Miss Gracie Hunt will continue to give free instruction for a limited time in the new painting that requires no talent. Takes on cloth, wood and leather. Room 2, Mansell Bldg.

The police commission has requested the resignation of Police Officer Stark and Joseph Sinnott will be appointed in his stead. A member of the police board stated last evening that Mr. Stark was to be let out for incompetency. It seems no charges were preferred against him, but Commissioners

Gordon, Cook and Barker agreed that he should be required to surrender his star. Mr. Stark had been on the police force for several years. Mr. Sinnott was formerly a member of the force but for two or three years had been out.

H. W. Brooks, the Journal's traveling representative, returns this morning to the metropolis. While here Mr. Brooks added a large number of names to the subscription lists, and the Journal is now quite generally circulated in the city. The Sunday edition of the Journal has proved popular with Astorians and there is great demand for it.

Frankie Hamilton was arrested yesterday by Constable Utsinger on a charge of assault. The complaint was issued at the instance of Mrs. Annie Seaburg, who alleged that Miss Hamilton had assaulted her. The defendant told the court she had gone to the Seaburg home to collect a bill of $3, and from the testimony of other witnesses it appeared the Seaburgs had capitulated upon Miss Hamilton's arrival. Justice Goodman evidently thought the charge well founded, for he fined Miss Hamilton $25. The fine was paid.

In the justice's court yesterday the case of the state against H. Saarkl, charged with assault, was postponed until 2 this afternoon. Saarkl is said to have assaulted Fred Enquist and the hearing has been deferred on several occasions. The case will be tried this afternoon, whether or not one of the attorneys manages to make his appearance in court.

The work of building the Allen mill in West Astoria is progressing satisfactorily, but it will be 60 days yet before the new institution is in operation. The capacity of the mill will be about 15,000 feet daily, and a shingle mill will be operated in connection. Additions to the plans will be made from time to time, as business conditions warrant. The new mill is located just west of the Tallant-Grant cannery.

Thus far 639 persons have registered for the approaching election. It is estimated that about 1,600 persons will vote in the city this year. Many voters seem to forget that they must register in order to vote for presidential electors, and it is expected there will be a rush when this fact becomes more generally known. The registrations at the close of business last night were as follows: No. 1, 76; No. 2, 83; No. 3, 114; No. 4, 116; No. 5, 126; No. 6, 67; No. 7, 57. Total, 639.

The report of Fish Warden Van Dusen for the month of March has been submitted to the state fisheries board. The report shows that the receipts of the office for the first quarter of the year aggregated $1,332.20, of which all but $16.70 came from licenses. The disbursements for the month of March amounted to $4,165.51, of which $2,249.18 was paid out of the hatchery fund for district No. 1 and $487.01 out of the hatchery fund for district No. 2. The general expenses amounted to $1,375.57.

The Astoria Commercial Club's bowling team will now have to tackle the Multnomah team to win the Feldenhimer trophy. Last Saturday night Multnomah went down to Portland Commercial, and, with proverbial luck, won the famous old trophy by a score of 934 to 992. The Multnomah team's score was 31 pins less than was recently bowled at Portland Commercial by Astoria Commercial. Several of the old-timers are bowling with Multnomah—Sigler, Dr. Cauthorn and Bailey. The Astorians believe they are capable of administering a decisive defeat to Multnomah and will send in a challenge for a contest. It is probable the game will be bowled either on the night of April 16 or April 23.

Sheriff Linville yesterday made rather a peculiar arrest. A stranger was conducting himself in a highly disorderly manner near Commercial and Fourteenth streets when the sheriff came along. The man was intoxicated and when the sheriff suggested to him that he get onto himself became very saucy. The fellow wanted to be arrested, but when the sheriff got hold of him he struggled with might and main. Mr. Linville was equal to this emergency and soon had the man lying over a lumber wagon, the driver of which was instructed to proceed to the city jail. The spectacle of a man over a barrel and a lumber wagon at the same time occasioned more or less interest. Judge Anderson will hear the story in the police court this afternoon.

O. F. Morton, the real estate man, is indignant because of the failure of the city officials to cause the water to be drained from the lot at the corner of Sixth and Bond streets. The property belongs to Secretary of State Dunbar. Recently a number of mischievous boys amused themselves by choking the drainage pipe with old sacking. The prank resulted in the flooding of the lot. At the last meeting of the council it was stated three or four prominent city officials had visited the premises for the purpose of determining upon the best method of abating the nuisance, but, like the flag, the water is still there. Morton says he yesterday sold the house on Sixth street which occupies the lot adjoining the flooded property no less than three times, and that in each instance the purchaser went back on the deal when he learned of the condition of the property on the corner. One of the purchasers was Councilman Kaboth, who told Morton he was not anxious to murder his family by exposing the members to the danger of disease incident to residence near the pool.

Tomorrow the steamship Indrapura will sail for Japan and China with a full cargo of about 6,000 tons. In addition to 271,392 feet of lumber, she will carry 3,000 tons of barley, a big shipment of flour, salmon, cigarettes, tobacco and an assortment of general freight. The goods go to Yokohama, Kobe, Hongkong, Shanghai and Manila. On account of the cargo not all being ready for her at the docks, the steamer has been in port longer than usual this trip. It is her last voyage to the Columbia. By the time that she reaches the orient her charter with the Portland-Asiatic Steamship Company will have expired. It is not yet known by her officers upon what run she is to be placed. Nothing definite will be known about the vessel's future until the steamer reaches Hongkong.

The fishing season commences April 15, and along the waterfront there is much activity as a result. Fishing boats have been placed in the water and the cannery tenders, gasoline and sailing craft, are also being prepared for the work. For months past the canneries and coldstorage plants have been under course of improvement, and there is not a cannery on the lower river to which extensive repairs have not been made. Many thousands of dollars have been expended by the packers and other dealers, and if the supply of fish is as good this year as was the case last season the pack will be a large one. As has been the custom of packers for several seasons past, the early fish will all go into pickle, and the late runs will be depended upon for canning purposes. An optimistic feeling prevails, both among packers and fishermen, and the season is looked forward to with every confidence that it will prove a successful one.

Crazy Sailor Runs Amuck

Frank Morrison, of the Perry,
Starts Out With Gun to Commit Murder.

Frank Morrison, a sailor from the revenue cutter Perry, ran amuck last night, but, fortunately, did not kill anyone, and himself escaped a deserved death. Morrison went into the Telephone saloon, where he received and neglected to pay for a drink. Later he wanted the bartender to sell him a pint of whisky for 20 cents, and when the request was denied, made a demonstration. Among the men in the house at the time was a stranger, whom the police identified as a very respectable, industrious man, and whom the drunken sailor evidently regarded as a particular friend of the bartender. Failing to get the liquor, the sailor left the house, and outside struck the stranger in the face. Morrison then ran to a Bond street shooting gallery, where he managed to get possession of a revolver. Returning, he took a shot at the stranger, but the bullet went wild. He stood defiantly on the sidewalk for some time, but did not shoot again.

Officers Oberg and Thompson learned of the matter and started out to find the sailor. As they were going toward Astor street they heard a police whistle, and, running in the direction from which the sound came, unexpectedly encountered Morrison, who came around the corner of Bond and Ninth streets with the revolver in his hand. He ran into the arms of the officers, who took him to jail.

After the shooting in front of the Telephone saloon Morrison went to the Anchor saloon on Astor street, where he created more or less consternation with the gun. When Officer Lindsey entered the place to arrest the fellow, the bartender, August Laneus, grappled with the officer, saying: "You must not take any man out of this saloon." While the policeman and bartender were scuffling—a circumstance, by the way, which constituted a penitentiary offense on the part of the bartender—Morrison escaped, but was captured by Officers Oberg and Thompson. He will be tried today.
